THE A.H.L. TODAY

The American Hockey League enters its 40th season this year and from all indications, it should be one of the most exciting and competitive campaigns in the four decade history of the A.H.L. The eight teams will play in two equal divisions, North and South. The New Haven Nighthawks will make the switch to the Southern Division and will join Hershey, Richmond and Baltimore, which is returning to the league after dropping out last January. In the Northern Division, the defending Calder Cup Champion Springfield Indians are pitted against Providence, Rochester and Nova Scotia. Between October 10, 1975 and March 31, 1976 an opening face-off will take place in 304 games. Then, it's on to the play-offs and the Calder Cup Finals. Most of the team's rosters show an important characteristic which might have been missing in recent years: experience. There are also some familiar faces returning off the ice. Coach Dean Prentice begins his second year at New Haven; Larry Wilson returns to Richmond; Chuck Hamilton is back at Hershey and Kent Douglas makes his debut in Baltimore. Three coaches return in the Northern Division; John Muckler at Providence, Dick Mattiussi at Rochester and Al MacNeil at Nova Scotia. The newcomer is Jimmy Anderson at Springfield, although the word newcomer seems unusual to describe the man who coached the Washington Capitals of the N.H.L. last season. Ability and know-how, by the men on and off the ice, should make this year's A.H.L. campaign one of the most exciting in a long time. Those two ingredients will breathe new life into the League and, after all, they say life begins at 40.

Parker MacDonald: Whatever Happened to June Allyson?

By PAUL MARSLANO

It was a cold, rainy night in Richmond, Va., and, as usual, very little was done the night before a game. Even the Nighthawk coach, Parker MacDonald, sat in his room, confined by the dreary weather as the winter of 1972 scolded the South as best it could without the use of snow.

Parker's television lit up the otherwise dim room, showing him as he gobbled down a Big Mac with cheese and assorted condiments. Next to him sat an enormous Coke, which was being wolfed down faster than the burger.

"Hey, whosdabestofdacriers," Parker blurted while trying to swallow, making his words stick together. "What?" came the answer. "You want to try that again."

"I said, Who's the best of the criers on TV or Hollywood?" Parker said while reaching for the Coke. "You know what I mean. Everytime you see her, she's always in tears. She's lost more movie husbands and lovers than anyone else in the theater."

"Ahh, let's see. Jane Wyman. How 'bout her?"

"Good, but she's second to this dame. Think again," Parker said.

I turned my thoughts toward the TV, and then it hit me. Right in front of my eyes was "Soldier in the Rain," and appropriately, June Allyson was crying her eyes out. "June Allyson," I yelled. "She's got to be."

Parker sat back, laughing so hard that he nearly spilled his soft drink. "Look at her," he said while trying to collect his food and drink at the same time, "she's crying right now."

That touched off a flurry of trivia questions, such as: "Who's the only guy ever to hit a home run off Sandy Koufax and catch a touchdown pass from Y. A. Tittle? After a dozen guesses, Parker finally passed. "Alvin Dark. He caught the TD pass off Tittle in the Rose Bowl when they both played at LSU."

And so it went, and all the time June Allyson poured out her heart to Van Johnson. Finally, I got up to leave. "Hey, aren't you going to stay to watch the end: She'll have a beaut of a cry in the finale," Parker said. I passed, lieing that I would watch it in my own room.

Several minutes later I comfortably crawled into the sack, and had almost dozed off when the phone rang. I tried not to knock over the lamp in the dark as I reached for the noise, just wanting to put an end to the sound.

"Was that ever a tear jerker," Parker laughed into the phone. "Did you see her at the end? I told you she was the best." I muttered something back into the phone and we both hung up, finally getting to sleep with no more interruptions.

As expected, the Nighthawks lost the next night to Richmond, but what else was new. It was their first year in the American Hockey League, and before it was over they would compile a lowly record of 16 wins, 40 losses and 20 ties. (The 20 ties are an AHL record).

Then it was back home for a couple of games, and another tie or two plus a loss. Homestands or roadstands didn't matter to Parker's collection of rookies and oldsters, they played equally bad at either place, showing an 8-20-10 mark in both places.

All the time, Parker was eating his heart out, trying to think of a way which might pull the team out of the cellar. He had Garry Howatt, Bob Nystrom and Glenn (Chico) Resch from the New York Islander organization, and Kevin Morrison from Minnesota. They would enliven a 7-2 home loss with some sensationalism, but the team just couldn't win.

Several nights later, at a hotel in Baltimore, Parker was back at his watch in front of the TV. He was flipping the dial, hoping to settle down with a good movie, preferably an oldie. Suddenly, he stopped. He started to laugh. "Look, there she is again!" said Parker while making room for me to see the screen. Sure enough, there was June baby again, crying her eyes out, except this time it was a different script and a new leading man.

Thank God that Parker didn't dwell on that channel too long. He found another show, and we both sat back for another exciting evening of television. The next night the 'Hawks played Baltimore, and Parker figured his team had a 50-50 chance, only because the Clippers were also in trouble.

But, the 'Hawks lost again, and the beat went on, unstoppable it seemed, for the entire season. Parker kept his feelings inside, trying not to feel despondant. He had always been a winner, and somehow this team would win.

"Now the power play . . ."

On the way back from Baltimore, Parker called to me, acting as if he had just solved the whole puzzle. I could see the light in his eyes. Maybe a trade? Connie Forey for Yvon Lambert. "Now I know why we've been losing," Parker said in an uncontrollable voice.

"It's those damn June Allyson movies. Everytime she's on the tube, we lose. From now on I'm checking the TV Guide before we play, and if she's on, I'm going to cry."

We both roared. It had now come to this. The ridiculous, the absurd had taken control over reason and sanity. There was no stopping this monster. It was snowballing and Parker knew it. It was a loser.

At the start of the 1973-74 season, Parker was a completely changed person. He had a potential winner. He said very little concerning the team, not wanting to tip his hand to anyone, even the fans. He would spring it on them all at once. Steve West, Jerry Byers, Terry Holbrook et al, this club would restore Parker's faith in the world.

By mid-November, the Nighthawks were in first place, cruising along in the powerful North Division. The team was in Jacksonville, Fla., where they would play the Barons. The night before the game, Parker had just returned from a movie, and was planning to watch TV. A call came from Minnesota. Jackie Gordon, the coach, had quit. Wren Blair, the general manager, wanted Parker. The next night Parker was behind the bench in Bloomington, Minn., where the North Stars dropped a heart-breaking 4-3 decision to the Montreal Canadiens, on a shot by Pete Mahovlich in the final seconds.

It had started again. Memories of '72 were staring Parker in the face. In New Haven, his Nighthawks lost more games in the final minute than he cared to remember. The thought must have crossed Parker's mind on that night: "Was June Allyson on TV?"

The North Stars started to fall, and slowly dropped out of contention for a playoff spot. No one worked harder than Parker. But, it was destiny, and the North Stars continued to lose tight games, and Parker was close to turning into a raving madman if something soon didn't change his luck.

When the season ended, Blair was ## 800 schools and the Army are making college a reality for more young people.

"About eighteen months ago, the Army began to develop a bold, new concept in cooperative education. Project Ahead.

"The program began at one university in the Midwest. Interest was so great the Army decided to expand it across the country. Today, the program involves more than 800 colleges and universities. And it's still growing.

"Project Ahead's structure is basically simple. But its benefits to young people and their parents are enormous.

Introducing Project Ahead:

"First of all, it is a unique individualized education plan. One that allows you to choose, if you qualify, an "alma mater" before you enlist. (Normally a participating school in your home area.) So no matter which college or colleges you attend while in the Army, you'll know beforehand the courses you'll need for credit at the school you want to graduate from.

"Secondly, the Army provides financial aid. College courses are available to you while you're in the Army. And the Army will pay up to 75% of the tuition for these courses. (After your enlistment's over, you'll be eligible for 36 months of financial assistance under the G.I. Bill.)

"We, in the educational community, are enthusiastic about this new plan. In fact, many of us believe Project Ahead will be as important to young people entering the Army as the G.I. Bill has been to veterans."

Dr. Arthur G. Hansen
President,
Purdue University

Gen. Fred C. Weyand
Chief of Staff,
U.S. Army

Now you don't have to choose between serving your Country and continuing your education.

"Project Ahead is the most exciting idea in education that the Army has ever offered.

"Too often people in the service have taken college courses from one school, only to learn later those courses would not apply toward their degrees. Project Ahead intends to change all that.

"The Army, together with over 800 colleges and universities, has a plan. A cooperative system that lets you know ahead of time which courses you'll need for credit at the school you've applied to and want to graduate from.

"You'll be receiving up to 75% of the tuition for college courses you take while in the Army. And now you can make sure you get credit for the college courses you successfully complete.

"Project Ahead is by no means a free ride. Because while you're working toward a college degree, you'll be serving your country.

"You'll be a soldier full time. A student part time. You'll train hard, you'll work hard. And you'll find that although a few years in the Army isn't the easiest way to earn a college education, it may be the most rewarding."

THE RUSSIANS ARE HERE!

With Moscow Central Army and Wings of the Soviet, Moscow Spartak is one of the "Big Three" of league hockey in the USSR. Coached by Nikolai Karpov and Valerie Fomenko, Spartak regularly contributes players to the Russian National and Olympic clubs; two of its brightest recent alumni are forwards Vladimir Shadrin and Aleksandr Yakushev, stalwarts for the Soviets in the 1974 series with Team Canada, and Boris Mayorov, a Junior coach and former Nationals player under Anatoli Tarasov.

Like many U.S. clubs, Spartak is in the process of rebuilding with youth. Two exceptional young defensemen who will be on the ice tonight will be Vladimir Kucherenko and Fedor Kanareikin, members of the 1974-75 world champion Soviet Junior National Team.

Another indicator of the strength of Spartak's defense is the fact that veterans Sergei Korotkov and Alexandr Kulikov represented the club on the international championship National club and on the team that played Team Canada in the 1974 series.

Spartak, like other Soviet teams, has been strongly influenced by the philosophy and techniques of Tarasov, long-time Nationals coach and coach of the Central Army club. The components of Russian hockey are speed, technique and teamwork. The emphasis is on moving and passing the puck and on defense. By North American standards, the Russians tend to pass when they should shoot. The rationale is that they pass until they have created the opportunity to shoot and score. In offense, the center, as playmaker, is the sparkplug.

One of the mind-bogglers in the Soviet technique is the Spartak style of offense, now used throughout Russian hockey, a merry-go-round of forwards which tends to mesmerize defensemen, goalies and fans alike.

In the past 20 years, Russian teams have dominated Olympic and World Championships and provided tough competition for Team Canada in 1972 and 1974, proving that the Soviets deserve consideration as the best hockey players in the world overall. On the Junior A level, Soviet teams have twice swept world championships, and are favored for the 1975-76 tournament in Helsinki.

Coach Parker MacDonald Looks at the Soviets

Tonight's game against the U.S.S.R. Spartak team is one which our players and I have been looking forward to since it was scheduled in November. A lot of the guys on our club have had the opportunity to play a Russian team in the past two years and know what to expect. I was behind the bench in 1973 when the Russians first played at the Coliseum and what they do on the ice still amazes me. We've had a chance to talk about this game and how we plan to approach it. But I'll say one thing about preparing for the Soviets; no matter how long you spend getting your team physically and mentally ready for them, they still do things that you're not quite ready for. A lot of people say the Soviets pass too much; that they throw the puck around inside the attacking zone when they should be shooting. I think that's the basic secret of their success. Every time they take a shot, they are in the best possible position to do so. And speaking about position, one of the main things I've tried to teach every player I've coached is to get them to play their position and not "wander." I know of no better way to demonstrate this than to show them a film of the Soviets in action. It seems no matter where the puck goes, there's always a Soviet player there. That's not luck; that's playing your position. In order to beat the Russians tonight, I think we simply have to play our game and not start chasing them all over the ice. The Nighthawks have the ability to win and, from the attitude I've seen lately, we've also got the desire. Playing the Soviets is a real challenge but it's one we are really anxious to accept.

HOCKEY VOCABULARY

BACK CHECKING—To check an opponent in your defending zone.

BODY CHECKING—To use your body to block or hit an opponent. Legal when he has possession of the puck or was last player to have touched it.

CHARGING — If more than three strides are taken before checking an opponent it constitutes charging. Illegal and calls for penalty.

BUTT-ENDING—To hit an opponent with the end of the stick farthest from the blade. Illegal and calls for penalty.

CROSS CHECKING—To hit an opponent with both hands on the stick and no part of the stick on the ice. Calls for a penalty.

ELBOWING — Hitting an opponent with the elbow. Illegal and calls for a penalty.

FORE CHECKING — Checking the opponent in his own zone.

FREEZING THE PUCK—Pinning the puck against the boards with either your skate or stick.

HAT TRICK — Three (or more) goals by a single player in a game.

MAJOR PENALTY — A five-minute penalty.

MATCH PENALTY—Suspension for balance of the game.

MINOR PENALTY — A two-minute penalty.

OFF-SIDES — Called when an attacking player precedes the puck across the opponents' blue line. Illegal and calls for a face-off.

OFF-SIDE PASS—Called when puck is passed to teammate across two or more lines. Illegal and calls for face-off from point where pass originated.

POWER PLAY—An all out attempt to score (with man-power advantage). Team usually uses four forwards and one defenseman in this situation.

ROUGHING — Minor fisticuffs or shoving. Illegal and calls for a minor penalty.

SLASHING—To swing stick at an opponent. Illegal and calls for a penalty (even if contact is not made).

SPEARING — To use stick as one would a spear. Illegal and calls for major penalty.

PARKER MacDONALD

fired, bringing back Gordon as general manager and coach. Parker was sent out to scout. "It's a lonely life," Parker said. "I like to be where the action is, not jumping from town-to-town by myself."

It was just another in the trilogy of lost years for Parker, who, by now, has come to forget the past. He's the only general manager that New Haven ever had (no one was given the title in his absence) and he wants nothing more than to develop a winner.

"I want the kind of team that the fans like," said MacDonald, who once played on the same line with Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio. "The fans expect hard work from their players, and we hope to provide them with just that. I'm very happy with the players that we have. I just hope they all live up to their potential."

Dean Prentice will resume coaching and teaching the younger players, while Parker will concern himself with front-office duties and player personnel.

Parker now is calm, collected and cool at all times. He knows what it will take to win.

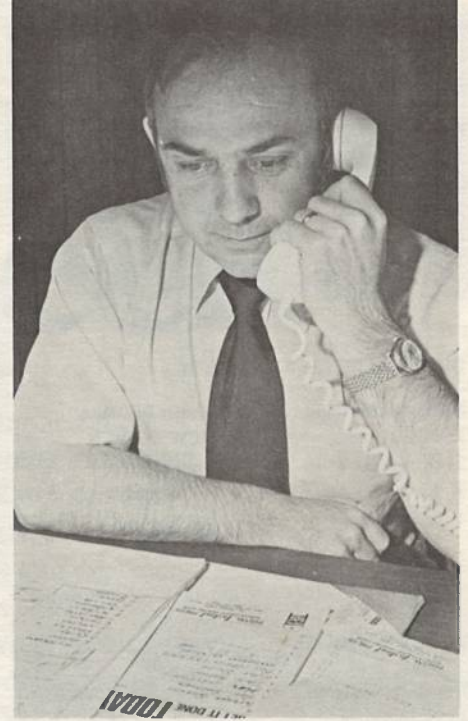

If he could only find a way to keep June Allyson off TV . . .

Parker's main task: putting a good team on the ice.

Parker meets with players frequently.

Parker is in constant touch with Minnesota and Detroit.

UNITED STATES HOCKEY HALL OF FAME

The 1974-75 hockey season was without a doubt the greatest in history as it relates to achievements of American hockey players according to the United States Hockey Hall of Fame at Eveleth, Minnesota.

On March 2, 1975, the Atlanta Flames' Curt Bennett (Cranston, Rhode Island) broke Tommy Williams' (Duluth, Minnesota) old record for the most goals in an NHL season by an American, twenty-three, and went on to establish a new seasonal mark of thirty-one. Earlier in the year Bennett had scored two hat tricks, only the third and fourth times in NHL history that an American had accomplished the feat.

The above mentioned Williams potted his 150th NHL career goal on March 7 for the Washington Capitals. This is far and away more than any American has scored during an NHL career. Then on April 7, teammate Stan Gilbertson, also from Duluth, scored four goals in a game to become the only American to ever achieve that record.

In the American Hockey League U.S. players were prominent on the roster of the Calder Cup winning Springfield Indians: Phil Hoene, Mark Heaslip, both from Duluth; Mike Usitalo, Calumet, Michigan; and Gary Sargent, Bemidji, Minnesota. Cambridge, Massachusetts native Dave Hynes became the first known American to score five goals in a professional game when he did so on February 17 in a 13-1 victory of his Rochester Americans over Springfield.

Americans Ed Walsh, Nova Scotia (Arlington, Massachusetts) and Rich Chartraw, Nova Scotia (Erie, Pa.) made the first All-Star team while Dave Reece, Rochester (Troy, N.Y.) placed on the second team. Both Walsh and Reece are goalies while Chartraw is a defenseman.

South Boston, Massachusetts' native Fred Ahern had a big year for the Central League champion Salt Lake City Golden Eagles scoring twenty-six goals and twenty-six assists. Other big U.S. scores in the league were Rob Palmer, Dallas (Detroit, Michigan) with 12-34-46 and Bill Klatt, Omaha (St. Paul, Minnesota) with 20-25-45.

The United States Hockey Hall of Fame is located on Highway 53 in Eveleth (60 miles north of Duluth) and is open 9 am to 6 pm Monday-Saturday and 10 am to 6 pm Sundays during the summer. Winter hours are Monday-Saturday 9 am to 5 pm and Noon-5 pm Sundays.

for Phone-Power customers.

Most sales people spend 40% of their time traveling. Less than 40% of their time selling. Phone-Power can convert that lost or wasted time into needed selling time. Many Phone-Power trained businesses have cut sales costs by over 40% — and their traveling costs by over 50%.

Phone-Power is actually eight programs that can be tailored for your company's use against almost any sales problem.

One: Selling existing accounts. Two: Collecting overdue accounts. Three: Qualifying prospects and making appointments. Four: Opening new accounts. Five: Reactivating old accounts. Six: Selling on service calls. Seven: Handling inquiries. Eight: Introducing new products.
